Dattilo proposes return of VMI executive director

Salary to be added to 2022 budget

BY BOB DEMAREE

For most of this year, Visit Madison Inc., has operated without an executive director as a cost-cutting measure, but at Monday's meeting, VMI board president Lucy Dattilo suggested plans to include the position in the agency's 2022 budget.

"I did add an executive director's salary in the budget," said Dattilo.

In February when there was uncertainty about VMI's contract with the Jefferson County Board of Tourism, which provides operations and marketing funding for VMI from the county's innkeepers tax, the VMI board agreed to lay off executive director Tawana Thomas for what it cited as financial reasons when revenue dropped during the COVID pandemic.

During Monday's meeting, Dattilo talked about upcoming board appointments, and ensuring VMI has quality people to lead the organization, noting the group needs the "right people in the right place in order for VMI to be successful."

"We have to have a great staff, a great board and we have to have a leader," Dattilo said, noting that she and VMI executive marketing director Sarah Prasil have worked to provide that leadership. "As hard as Sarah and I have tried, and I think we've done a good job because a year ago from where we at, and where we are now, it just didn't happen by chance. And a lot of people have been a part of that; not just the two of us."

However, Dattilo said Prasil "needs to work on marketing and I need to build my life back."

A new site manager has been named for Indiana's Lanier Mansion State Historic Site in downtown Madison to start work on Jan. 3, 2022 and replace Derek Peck, who died unexpectedly in June.

Sarah Prasil, executive marketing director for Visit Madison Inc., reported the news at Monday morning's VMI meeting that Marnie Leist, a 15-year museum professional, has been hired as the new site manager in an announcement by Devin Payne, Southeast Regional Director for Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites.

Marnie Leist

"The enthusiasm that they speak about her is tremendous," Prasil said. "She's very well-rounded" with experience with museum, programming and retail. "We're excited to have some leadership for that site."

3 additional COVID-19 deaths recorded locally

BY BOB DEMAREE

While two local counties — both in Kentucky — are reporting three additional deaths in the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, Indiana lawmakers are making plans to convene in an effort to consider legislation forcing an end to Indiana's current public health state of emergency.

Trimble County reported two new deaths — bringing the death toll there to 21 — and Carroll County reported one — giving that community 30 deaths for the pandemic — as the overall number of dead has now reached 165 dead in the Courier area out fo 10,285 residents who tested positive for the virus.

Indiana Senate President Pro Tem Rodric Bray, R-Martinsville, and House Speaker Todd Huston, R-Fishers, said lawmakers will return to the Statehouse for a one-day session on Nov. 29.

Indiana woman allegedly sold daughter, 13, to man, 27

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT WAYNE — An Indiana woman allegedly sold her 13-year-old daughter to a 27-year-old man before she and her husband forced her to marry him and then celebrated the wedding with a party, authorities said.

The girl's mother was charged Thursday in Allen County with child selling where the defendant transfers or receives property for terminating the care of a dependent and neglect of a dependent, The Journal Gazette reported.

The 27-year-old man, Zee Kdee Ya, was also charged Thursday. He faces charges of child solicitation and neglect of a dependent.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of Ya and the girl's mother. Online court records did not list attorneys Friday who could speak on behalf of either of them.

Police got involved when a friend of the girl called Fort Wayne police on Dec. 20, 2020, to say that her friend was being forced to marry an adult that night, according to court documents.

Officers arrived at a party and saw a sign on the wall celebrating the marriage, court documents said. Adults there denied it was a marriage celebration, saying it was "only an engagement between the girl and Zee Kdee Ya," according to court records.

But when police spoke privately to the girl, she said that seven days prior to the wedding celebration, her parents had signed paperwork in Burmese, arranging the marriage.

Court records allege that Ya gave the girl a gold bracelet, necklace and about $2,000 in cash, which she turned over to her parents. At that point, she was considered married and was moved in with Ya and had to share a bed with him, according to court documents.

When Ya allegedly tried to touch the girl on top of her clothes, she yelled at him to leave her alone, court records state.

He then quoted the Bible to her and told the girl: "I own you now. I can make you do what I want," according to court documents, which also state that the girl said her parents told her she "needed to have sex with Ya because he was now her husband."

Ya allegedly told a police investigator the party was to celebrate the engagement and wedding. He admitted that the girl had moved in with him after they signed the paperwork but denied they stayed in the same bed, and said that the wedding was stopped by police and the Department of Child Services, according to court documents.

Ya told police he'd given money and gold to the girl and the girl told him she gave the cash to her father, court documents state.

The girl's mother told police her daughter "was only getting engaged and wouldn't get married until she was 18 years old," according to the records. She said she and her husband used the $2,000 from Ya to buy food for the party and makeup for their daughter, court documents said.

She allegedly said the girl's father was aware they used the money for the party. But the father, who has not been charged, told police he never received any money and "didn't know anything about the money given to the victim," court documents state.

and want to model that thinking for our daughter," said the 40-year-old Louisville mom, who recently took Solome to a local middle school for her shot. "The only way to really beat COVID is for all of us collectively to work together for the greater good."

Scientists agree. Each infection — whether in an adult in Yemen or a kid in Kentucky — gives the virus another opportunity to mutate. Protecting a new, large chunk of the population anywhere in the world limits those opportunities.

That effort got a lift with 28 million U.S. kids 5 to 11 years old now eligible for child-sized doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine. Moves elsewhere, like Austria's recent decision to require all adults to be vaccinated and even the U.S. authorizing booster shots for all adults on Friday, help by further reducing the chances of new infection.

Vaccinating kids also means reducing silent spread, since most have no or mild symptoms when they contract the virus. When the virus spreads unseen, scientists say, it also goes unabated. And as more people contract it, the odds of new variants rise.

David O'Connor, a virology expert at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, likens infections to "lottery tickets that we're giving the virus." The jackpot? A variant even more dangerous than the contagious delta currently circulating.

"The fewer people who are infected, the less lottery tickets it has and the better off we're all going to be in terms of generating the variants," he said, adding that variants are even more likely to emerge in people with weakened immune systems who harbor the virus for a long time.

Researchers disagree on how much kids have influenced the course of the pandemic. Early research suggested they didn't contribute much to viral spread. But some experts say children played a significant role this year spreading contagious variants such as alpha and delta.

Getting kids vaccinated could make a real difference going forward, according to estimates by the COVID-19 Scenario Modeling Hub, a collection of university and medical research organizations that consolidates models of how the pandemic may unfold. The hub's latest estimates show that for this November through March 12, 2022, vaccinating 5- to 11-year-olds would avert about 430,000 COVID cases in the overall U.S. population if no new variant arose. If a variant 50% more transmissible than delta showed up in late fall, 860,000 cases would be averted, "a big impact," said project co-leader Katriona Shea, of Pennsylvania State University.

Delta remains dominant for now, accounting for more than 99% of analyzed coronavirus specimens in the United States. Scientists aren't sure exactly why. Dr. Stuart Campbell Ray, an infectious disease expert at Johns Hopkins University, said it may be intrinsically more infectious, or it may be evading at least in part the protection people get from vaccines or having been infected before.

"It's probably a combination of those things," he said. "But there's also very good and growing evidence that delta is simply more fit, meaning that it's able to grow to higher levels faster than other variants that are studied. So when people get delta, they become infectious sooner."

COVID-19

Indiana's statewide mask mandate and business or crowd restrictions were lifted in March, but the Associated Press reports many conservatives have criticized Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb for continuing to extend the monthly public health order which he has renewed 20 times. Holcomb has signaled that the 30-day renewal he signed in late October might be the last.

The governor faces a Dec. 1 deadline for extending the health emergency order and an accompanying executive order, which, among a handful of provisions, has allowed the state health commissioner to issue a standing doctor's order allowing pharmacists to administer COVID-19 vaccinations for children ages 5 to 11.

Holcomb said last Tuesday that he was talking with legislative leaders about allowing the public health emergency to expire if lawmakers approved steps that would allow the state to keep receiving enhanced federal funding for Medicaid expenses and food assistance programs, and also maintain the childhood vaccination authorization.

Holcomb said such actions "would allow us to wind it down responsibly."

Bray and Huston said in a joint statement that lawmakers would consider those concerns during their one-day session, which will come more than a month ahead of the Jan. 4 scheduled start of the Legislature's new session.

"There are only a few key components of the executive order that remain in place, including measures that help vulnerable Hoosiers. Before the emergency expires, we'll return for a one-day session to pass legislation addressing these issues," Huston said in the statement.

Public testimony on the legislation will be heard on Tuesday in the House Chamber starting at 10:30 a.m.

On Friday, in a phone interview, Indiana State Representative Randy Frye, R-Greensburg, spoke out against vaccination mandates, stating they are "an overreach of government."

"I got vaccinated, but it was my choice," Frye said. "There's no exceptions for someone that has a medical condition, or if they've had COVID and they have their own anti-bodies, and there are no provisions for religious exemptions."

On Monday, the Indiana Department of Health reported 1,914 new positive cases of COVID-19 in the state, bringing the overall total to 1,077,372, along with three newly reported deaths for an overall total of 16,737.

In Kentucky, there were 2,101 new cases of COVID-19 to lift the state's overall total to 769,732, and 212 new deaths for an overall total of 10,606.

Along with the three new deaths — two in Trimble and one in Carroll — Carroll surpassed the 2,000 threshold in positive COVID-19 case by adding 10 new cases since Friday. Trimble County also had 10 more cases of COVID-19, lifting its overall total of 1,305. Both counties remain in the "Red" metric for incidence rates reflecting high spread. Trimble's positivity rate is 11.83% while Carroll's is 5.36%.

In Jefferson County, the total positive cases of COVID-19 is now 5,565, an increase of 49 since Friday. The county's death count remains at 102 with a 13% positivity rate. Jefferson County's metric remains "Orange" for moderate to high spread.

Switzerland County's positivity case count is now 1,428 for an increase of seven since Friday. The county's death count remains at 12 with a 9.3% positivity rate. Switzerland County's metric is "Yellow" for moderate spread. In information released last week by the Switzerland County Health Department, 75% of the county's 32 positive cases were unvaccinated, showing a pattern of decline each month since July where 97% were unvaccinated to October when 88% were unvaccinated.

Husband feels like a roommate

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My husband and I have been married for six years. We're older, and it's the third marriage for both of us.

At first, my husband was very passionate, loving and anxious to please. We took a lot of trips and went out to eat and socialize regularly.

Gradually, over the past three years, he has moved into the guest bedroom, and we haven't had sex at all. We rarely go anywhere together anymore, and he is content to spend most of the day looking at his phone.

He gets annoyed when I try to talk to him about our relationship. We seem to have settled into a platonic relationship, much to my dismay. I want to know how to rekindle our relationship and start to live again. — Feeling Just Like a Roommate

Dear Feeling Just Like a Roommate: You have to take hold of your relationship and your life and happiness. Insist that your husband sit down with you for an conversation — no phones allowed — and express to him just what you wrote in your letter. Use "I" statements, such as, "I'm feeling just like a roommate" or, "I don't feel fulfilled when we don't have sex, we don't travel and we rarely go anywhere together."

His response will tell you everything. Of course, don't rule out couples therapy.

Dear Annie: Your advice to "Anxious Aunt" about a family heirloom was perfect. As I once read in Ann Landers' column, "People are more important than things." When I was young, I was on the other end of this dilemma.

More than 40 years ago, I accepted a proposal from a man whose family was of a different culture. His mother and grandmother were particularly kind in welcoming me to the family. When his grandmother died, she left me a lovely necklace and earring set in her will.

Unfortunately, soon afterward, I had an argument with the man, who struck me. I feel that physical abuse has no place in a happy marriage and broke off the engagement. I felt that it was not right for me to keep the family jewelry, so I returned it to his mother, insuring the package for many times its worth as a mark of respect. Luckily, I kept the receipt.

A few months later, the police came to my door to arrest me, as my ex-fiance claimed that I had stolen some jewelry from his house. I produced the receipt and asked if I might make a telephone call, which the police officers allowed. I called his mother, who spoke to the officers on my behalf.

"Anxious Aunt" must let the heirloom go, no matter how painful it seems. Resentment, especially over what was originally an act of kindness, leads to irrational anger, which makes us all behave in ways that lead to regrets. — Let It Go and Moved On

Dear Let it Go and Moved On: Thank you for your very kind words and letter.

Swallow your pride, ask for a ride

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I am an 80-year-old female, a widow. I live alone.

I have a history of having arthritis, and I can't take medications for arthritis due to having had stomach ulcers. I had a hip replacement in the spring, and I had hoped I would be able to walk without the use of a walker. It is apparent that I am going to need the walker to function. I talked with my orthopedic surgeon. Surgery is not an option. I have scoliosis as well.

I have a small walker with three wheels. I keep it in my car for use when I go to the beauty shop and for other short trips. I do need help in getting the walker out of the car. I am able to drive, and when I do, I primarily drive in town.

I have always been active, volunteering at hospitals and other civic organizations. It's been difficult to ask for help. I have someone who gets my groceries and who is available to help me in my house. She comes every two weeks, unless I have a doctor's appointment.

I have missed going to church. My children do not live in the same city, so asking for their help is not an option. None of my friends has offered to help. I can't go by myself since I don't have any help to get my walker out of the car.

I offered to pick up one friend and give her a ride to church. She said she preferred to take her own car because she liked to go early. She did not offer to give me a ride.

I have always been active in church. I can watch religious programs and sermons on TV, but there is a void because of my not being able to attend. Most of my time I spend at home. I do like to read.

I took care of my husband for years because he had Parkinson's and dementia.

I feel guilty for not going to church. But I am very prideful for not asking for help.

I feel left out. I suppose it's a matter of pride for me not to call and ask for help.

What are your feelings? — Seeking Your Opinion

Dear Seeking Opinion: My opinion is to swallow your pride and ask another friend for a ride to church. You don't have to feel left out anymore. People want to help. There is nothing wrong with asking for help. Look at it this way: When someone helps someone else, they feel good about themselves. So, by you asking someone for help, you are actually helping them feel good about doing something kind. It's a beautiful full circle.

Especially with Thanksgiving and the holidays coming up, you are going to want to be with community, and community will want to be with you!

Damage limited in electrical fire

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Sunday morning fire that started when a light fixture shorted in the kitchen of a Madison home caused minor damage to the residence after quick response by the homeowner and firefighters.

Madison Township fire chief Robert Black said the fire, reported at the home of home of Jim and Teresa Roeder, 1375 East Wehner Drive just off of Telegraph Hill Road at 8:04 a.m., resulted in minimal damage after the home owner turned off the electrical breaker after noticing lights flickering in the house.

"That eliminated the heat source," said Black.

Black said the fire damaged one of the rafters in attic along with insulation but was out and the scene cleared in about an hour, causing minimal damage. He said there was smoke a odor that will need to be cleaned but not structural damage or injuries.

In addition to Madison Township Fire Department, Rykers' Ridge Fire Department also responded s well as King's Daughters' Hospital EMS.

The fire was Madison Township's 211th call of the year, a significant increase over 2020 when there were 155 calls for the entire year.

GOP embraces natural immunity as substitute for COVID-19 vaccines

BY ANTHONY IZAGUIRRE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Republicans fighting President Joe Biden's coronavirus vaccine mandates are wielding a new weapon against the White House rules: natural immunity.

They contend that people who have recovered from the virus have enough immunity and antibodies to not need COVID-19 vaccines, and the concept has been invoked by Republicans as a sort of stand-in for vaccines.

Florida wrote natural immunity into state law this week as GOP lawmakers elsewhere are pushing similar measures to sidestep vaccine mandates. Lawsuits over the mandates have also begun leaning on the idea. Conservative federal lawmakers have implored regulators to consider it when formulating mandates.

Scientists acknowledge that people previously infected with COVID-19 have some level of immunity but that vaccines offer a more consistent level of protection. Natural immunity is also far from a one-size-fits-all scenario, making it complicated to enact sweeping exemptions to vaccines.

That's because how much immunity COVID-19 survivors have depends on how long ago they were infected, how sick they were, and if the virus variant they had is different from mutants circulating now. For example, a person who had a minor case one year ago is much different than a person who had a severe case over the summer when the delta variant was raging through the country. It's also difficult to reliably test whether someone is protected from future infections.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported in August that COVID-19 survivors who ignored advice to get vaccinated were more than twice as likely to get infected again. A more recent study from the CDC, looking at data from nearly 190 hospitals in nine states, determined that unvaccinated people who had been infected months earlier were five times more likely to get COVID-19 than fully vaccinated people who didn't have a prior infection.

"Infection with this virus, if you survive, you do have some level of protection against getting infected in the future and particularly against getting serious infection in the future," said Dr. David Dowdy of Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. "It's important to note though that even those who have been infected in the past get additional protection from being vaccinated."

Dattilo said she plans to take a step back from her leadership role at VMI. "I will offer to come back but I would prefer someone else step up to be president," she said, noting that will depend on whether City Council reappoints her to the board.

"Be thinking about who appointed you and how you got here, and if you're going to be returning, and if you're not going to be returning who your replacement might be," she said. "The best people to find the next people are the ones that are already at the table. It's all about having the right people in the right place at the right time."

VMI's contract with the Jefferson County Board of Tourism ends March 31, but Dattilo said she has already begun work on the next contract and budget in an effort to ensure that continues with no gap in funding for VMI's operations and marketing. "I don't want there to not be a contract and still be providing services, and no guarantee of income. It's just not a good way to conduct business." Dattilo said the budget will be submitted to the VMI board for approval in December and then sent on to JCBT.

"When I was on the board 10 years ago, the city gave us $9,000, so a $1,000 increase in a decade isn't a whole lot of money."

— Lucy Dattilo
VMI board president

Dattilo also mentioned finding other revenue sources for VMI. She said the county appropriated $1,500 from its budget to VMI, which she noted may be confused as being part of the innkeepers tax that's received from JCBT, but it is not. She said the City of Madison also provides $10,000.

"When I was on the board 10 years ago, the city gave us $9,000, so a $1,000 increase in a decade isn't a whole lot of money." She noted the "tourism industry brings in $40 million and I'd like to think VMI plays a big part of that, so hopefully we can work with our governments to get stronger support for tourism."

In particular, she Dattilo said it is wise for VMI to not depend on so much of its financial support coming through the innkeepers tax. "To have diversity in our income and our support would help" in providing more financial stability for VMI, she said.

In other business:

- Prasil announced that the Indiana Bass Federation will be hosting a tournament in Madison during the weekend of June 11-12 and again for the IBF Classic Oct. 29-30. At the last JCBT meeting, the board approved $5,000 toward the tourneys in which Dattilo noted Indiana Bass Federation pays about 90% of the cost. "With that $5,000 investment, there's the potential to bring in $50,000 to $100,000," said Dattilo.
- Prasil said efforts are underway to create a motorcyle/motor trail, which she said is a vision of Curt Jacobs Sr., who "being an avid rider has identified seven trails that start in Madison and go out to different places" providing safe, well-paved roads. Prasil said Jacobs pitched the idea to Dattilo and Madison Mayor Bob Courtney, who brought the idea to VMI. She is also working with Ron Bateman on motor road clubs for the same trails with hopes of appealing to more than just motorcyclists.
- Plans are being finalized for the Nights Before Christmas Candlelight Tour of Homes, scheduled for the last weekend of November and first weekend of December. Additionally, Prasil said VMI is working to promote Merry Madison events along with the Hanover Tinsel Twinkle Trail.

LEIST

Leist's most recent position was in Miami, Oklahoma, where she served as executive director of the Shawnee Tribe Cultural Center, developing multiple grant-funded projects to promote community voices, advance collections care, establish best practices and fund facility improvements.

Leist has spent the bulk of her career at the Alutiiq Museum in Kodiak, Alaska, rising from registrar and repatriation coordinator to curator of collections to director of operations. At the Alutiiq Museum, Leist collaborated with government agencies, donors, educators, artists and community partners in her various roles to help the museum become the second accredited tribal museum by the American Alliance of Museums (AAM) and attain the first State of Alaska designation as a Natural and Cultural History Repository.

However, Leist is familiar with the Midwest and the Ohio River Valley. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in Art History from Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio; a Master of Arts in Art History and a Museum Studies Graduate Certificate from the University of Cincinnati; a Master of Arts in World War II Studies from Arizona State University in conjunction with the National World War II Museum, and has earned numerous professional certificates from AAM and American Association of State and Local History (AASLH), among others.

Leist, who is married and has a son, along with cats and a dog, recently finished restoration of an historic house in Oklahoma, and Payne said she will "no doubt find Madison's historic district the perfect fit."

BOYS BASKETBALL PREVIEW

Area teams start season with level playing field

See Page B6 for list of schedules

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

After watching Southwestern and Madison dominate the area over the past several years, it will be a more level playing field as the 2021-22 boys basketball season kicks off this week.

Those two powerhouse programs, which combined to win 39 games last season, graduated seven of their 10 starters between them and Madison will have a new coach on the sideline.

Both the Cubs and the Rebels will still be formidable opponents, but Switzerland County is on the rise and Shawe is looking to make a move in coach Dan Hambrick's third season. Meanwhile, Christian Academy of Madison, with the high-scoring Clay Carter in the lead, could have a fantastic season.

A look at all five local boys basketball teams on the Indiana side of the Ohio River:

CHRISTIAN ACADEMY DEFENDERS

Christian Academy went 16-10 last season and returns a good base this season as it aims for a second Southern Roads Conference title in the past three years.

Six-foot senior Clay Carter was the second-leading scorer in the area last season at 21.2 points per game and will be the leader. Along with the ability to score from anywhere, Carter also did a little of everything for the Defenders, averaging 6.5 rebounds, 4.0 assists and 4.0 steals per game.

But CAM is not a one-man show. Returning starters Jaxon Miller (11 ppg, 7 rpg) and Adin Gamble (4 ppg, 4 rpg) give the Defenders a strong trio and junior Micah Jackinowski and sophomore Elijah Kummer are ready to jump into big roles.

"I'm really looking forward to this season," CAM coach Adrian Carter said. "We have a tough schedule with seven IHSAA schools and several good Christian schools, but I think we will be very competitive in all our games this year."

CAM opened the season with two wins last weekend, defeating Micah Christian 63-35 on Friday and Pleasant View 55-45 on Saturday. The Defenders host Bloomington Lighthouse today.

MADISON CUBS

First-year coach Adam Stotts takes over for Sherron Wilkerson after three years as an assistant coach. The Cubs graduated three starters off of a 17-9 team but there are several reasons Stotts can be optimistic.

The biggest reason for optimism is the Cubs' two returning starters. Six-foot-two junior Kaden Oliver is a dynamic scorer who averaged 12 ppg and 3.0 apg last season while 6-foot-4 senior Jackson Falconberry averaged 11.0 ppg and 6.0 rpg.

The rest of the roster will be young and inexperienced, but Stotts loves what he sees.

"This is the hardest working group I've ever been apart of and we have key pieces in guys like Collin Yancey, Henry Grote, Jackson Bear and Jackson Lynch who didn't play last year. And Andrew Scroggins is finally healthy," Stotts said. "Overall, this group has a chance to be special. They have bought in to everything since day one and have made it a great process my first year."

Madison opens the season at Southwestern on Wednesday in the annual Turkey Shootout and then travels to Jennings County on Friday, Dec. 3 for a matchup with its old Hoosier Hills Conference rival.

SHAWE HILLTOPPERS

Shawe won its first game of the season last year then promptly dropped the next 19 in a rough stretch that saw the team shut down twice because of COVID-19 protocols and a young squad struggle to find any kind of rhythm.

With a full off-season behind them — and hopefully a full season ahead of them — the young Hilltoppers are hoping to make a jump this season.

Sophomore Philip Kahn is the leading returning scorer after averaging 6.1 ppg last season while senior Jack Grote (4.4 ppg) returns after missing the first half of last season. Senior Louis Liu, juniors Wyatt Nichter and Davis Grote, and sophomores Sam Fewell and Jacob Hertz will all get a chance to shine.

Shawe's season opener against Medora has been moved to Tuesday, Nov. 30. The Hilltoppers will now open the season on Saturday at home to New Washington.

SOUTHWESTERN REBELS

Southwestern had a special season a year ago, going 22-6 and reaching the regional championship game. But four starters graduate from that team and the Rebels will have a different look this season.

But that doesn't mean the Rebels won't be dangerous. With two key players back and a strong junior varsity itching to make its mark, there is every reason to believe that the Rebels can win their fourth sectional title in the past five years.

"I'm really excited about this team. We have a lot of guys that have had to take a back seat the last couple years because of the outstanding class that just graduated," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum said. "Obviously, it is going to take some time to figure out our new identity' you can't just lose that much talent and not have some things to figure out. But we have some really talented kids that have put in the time and I am really looking forward to fans getting to see what they can do."

Four-year starter Zach Cole (9.3 ppg, 4.6 rpg, 3.0 apg, 63 FG%) will be the team leader while 6-foot-5 senior Parker Davis (7.7ppg, 3.6rpg, 74 FG%) will be the muscle inside. Sharpshooters Colton Cloud and Mitch Mingione are ready to step up into bigger roles and sophomore Jamison Lewis lit up the junior varsity last season and is ready to shine.

"Having a kid like Zach Cole back is really big for us. He is a four-year starter who has played in a lot of big games and knows what it takes to be successful," Nussbaum said. "He is easily one of the most unselfish players I have ever been around. He is just the type of player that is going to do whatever it takes to win. Having that type of player as a leader on the court and in the locker room is obviously extremely valuable."

Southwestern hosts Madison in the annual Turkey Shootout on Wednesday then heads to Clarksville on Tuesday, Nov. 30.

SWITZERLAND CO. PACERS

Switzerland County took its lumps last season, going 3-21 in coach Travis Wrightsman's first season. But with seven losses by five points or less, the Pacers were in most of their games and are ready to breakout.

Four starters return from that squad, led by 6-foot senior Ben Hicks, who averaged 13.2 ppg last season. Fellow seniors Bryce Wrightsman (8.6 ppg, 4.0 apg) and Bryce Turner (8.3 ppg) give the team leadership while 6-foot-1 sophomore Jacob Williams (6.7 ppg, 4.0 rpg) will try to build on a strong freshman season.

The key to the season may be 6-foot-4 freshman Cam Craig, who will play immediately and will make an impact.

"With four starters back and with Cam Craig moving into the starting line up we will be a much improved team from last year," Coach Wrightsman said. "We have a good group of returning seniors to go along with two sophomores in Jacob Williams and Canaan Johnson who seen a lot of varsity action as freshmen. As the season goes along I think this team will get better and better."

Switzerland opens the season on Friday at South Decatur then hosts Austin on Saturday.

PREP BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Shawe girls roll through Seven Oaks

BY JORDAN BEAR

Shawe is once again one game above .500 after the Hilltoppers topped Seven Oaks Classical School 45-6 in girls basketball Saturday morning at home.

The Hilltoppers, who were playing without starting center Lina Leatherman who was on senior retreat, jumped out to the lead early and never looked back. Shawe pitched a shutout in the first half, leading 34-0 at the break, and coach Terry King spent much of the rest of the game working on the team's half-court offense and trying to get in work instead of running up the score.

"We wanted to jump out and get the lead. We never pressed, we picked them up at the 10-second line, and we did that long enough to get us a comfortable lead," King said. "After that, we wanted to fall back and work on our half-court defense and offense. We didn't want fast breaks and steals and trying to run a score up. They would have served no purpose."

Shawe's first bucket in the second half triggered a running clock under the IHSAA's new mercy rule implemented this year.

One player who really stood out for Shawe was freshman Harlee Hill, who recorded her first career double-double with 21 points and 12 rebounds.

"I hope this really helps her confidence and what she's capable of. We were playing without Lina today so hopefully this will show that she can step in," King said. "She's only a freshman so hopefully she can take this game and going forward continue to practice as the center and as a forward. Her ability is there, she just has to believe in herself and hopefully this game will help with that."

Ava Turner chipped in 10 points for the Hilltoppers while Allison Knoebel scored nine points. Autumn Lathrem added four points and Jennifer Avalos scored one.

Shawe, now 3-2 on the season, hit the road on Monday to travel to Borden. The Hilltoppers then don't play again until hosting Southwestern as part of a boys-girls doubleheader on Friday, Dec. 3.

SWITZERLAND GIRLS WIN TWO

On Friday, the Pacers picked up a 46-35 non-conference win at Rising Sun. Jessie Duvall had 16 points to lead the Swiss, Maddie Duvall scored 11, Courtney Higgins had nine points, Halle Archer had six and Hannah Hayes four.

"A solid defensive effort by the Pacers, specifically Nora Hankins and Hannah Hayes," Switzerland County coach Brooke Todd said.

On Saturday, Switzerland beat Franklin County 46-40 at home. Jessie Duvall had 14 points, Maddie Duvall had 13 points, five rebounds and four steals, Archer had eight points and Higgins scored four.

Switzerland, now 4-1 on the season, hosts North Decatur on Wednesday and hosts Milan on Tuesday.

REBELS KNOCK OFF DEARBORN

Southwestern used a big second quarter to take the lead then held on in the fourth to knock off South Dearborn 60-56 in girls basketball Saturday on the road.

The Rebels trailed 11-6 after the first quarter but ripped off 21 points in the second to take a 27-22 lead into the break. Southwestern maintained the lead through the third then scored 20 more points — including nine from the foul line — in the fourth to ice the win.

"We started out slow in first but came on after that. Trinity (McLain) and Kylie (Eccles) are capable of this type of scoring every game," Southwestern coach Brian Crank said. "All that played contributed to this win. South Dearborn played extremely tough against us, but we kept our composure. It is nice to get a win on the road against a 3A school.

"Emily Hatton went down at the end of the game, but she is feeling much better now, and our girls busted their tails to get a win for Emily."

McLain and Eccles each scored 19 points to lead Southwestern. Eccles also had seven rebounds while shooting 62% from the field, while McLain had four assists and four steals.

Ashley Fulton added 12 points and four steals, and Emma Long had 10 points and nine rebounds.

Southwestern, now 2-4 on the season, hosts Madison on Wednesday for the annual Turkey Shootout.

CAM BOYS OPEN WITH WINS

Christian Academy of Madison's boys basketball team opened the 2021-22 season with a pair of victories over the weekend

On Friday, CAM knocked off Micah Christian (Ky.) 63-35 at home and then Saturday, the Defenders held on for a 55-45 win over Pleasant View on the road.

CAM blew open its game with Micah early and cruised from there. Nine different players scored in the game for the Defenders, led by Clay Carter with 14 points, and Elijah Kummer with 11.

Carter scored 22 points to lead the Defenders against Pleasant View while Austin Dailey had 12 and Jaxon Miller scored 11.

CAM led 18-10 after the first quarter and held the advantage the rest of the way, but the Bulldogs stayed close throughout.

Christian Academy, now 1-0 overall and 1-0 in the Southern Roads Conference, hosts Bloomington Lighthouse today and then hosts Assumption (Ky.) on Friday, Dec. 3.

MADISON FALLS AT SALEM

Casey Dyer had a big game for the Cubs, scoring a career-high 19 points while pulling down seven rebounds. Cam Cahall had eight points and five rebounds, Taylor Lynch had seven points, five rebounds and three assists, and Breck Ralston and Alaina Kelley each had six points.

Madison, now 2-3 on the season, heads to Southwestern on Wednesday for the annual Turkey Shootout. The Cubs then head to Floyd Central on Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Pacers notch blowout win over Pelicans

BY PHILLIP B. WILSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Domantas Sabonis had 20 points and 10 rebounds, and the Indiana Pacers' starters bounced back from being benched a night earlier to beat the New Orleans Pelicans 111-94 on Saturday night.

Yanked by coach Rick Carlisle midway through the third quarter of loss at Charlotte, Indiana's starters opened with 23 points in the first quarter for a 32-19 lead against the Pelicans.

"I think it was a wake-up call," Pacers center Myles Turner said. "This league is all about how you respond. You need to play the game right way."

The one change to the starting lineup was shooting guard Justin Holiday, who scored 17 points with four 3-pointers.

"Obviously a much-needed win for us," Carlisle said. "I liked our disposition all night. There was a real spirit of sharing the ball."

Jonas Valanciunas had 19 points and 13 rebounds for the Pelicans. Naji Marshall scored 14 points and Brandon Ingram had 12.

"We just didn't come out with the energy and execution that we needed," Pelicans coach Willie Green said.

Carlisle was critical of his starters' selfishness Friday. That's why the coach stuck with reserves down the stretch at Charlotte, where a 25-point deficit was trimmed to three at the final buzzer. This night, the Pacers shared the ball with 20 assists to the Pelicans' nine to build a 58-46 halftime lead.

"When the ball moves with that kind of pace and tempo, a lot of good things happen," Carlisle said.

Bengals snap skid, topple Raiders 32-13

BY W.G. RAMIREZ
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAS VEGAS — Cincinnati Bengals running back Joe Mixon asked his teammates at Thursday's practice what the plans were for a touchdown celebration in lieu of their first-ever trip to Las Vegas.

"We was like, 'we gotta do something like we gambling,' " Mixon said.

Mixon rushed for 123 yards, scored two touchdowns, celebrated in the end zone by pretending to shake and roll a pair of dice, and the Bengals defeated the Las Vegas Raiders 32-13 on Sunday.

The well-rested Bengals (6-4) came out of their bye week and snapped a two-game skid to climb back into the AFC North race, while the Raiders (5-5) lost their third straight since their bye week when they led the AFC West

"We don't talk a lot about big picture this season, what games we have coming up ... we just put ourselves in a position to control our destiny at this point," Bengals coach Zac Taylor said. "As long as we take care of our business one week at a time then we'll be in great shape."

Joe Burrow was 20 of 29 for 148 yards and threw one touchdown for Cincinnati, while Offensive Rookie of the Year candidate Ja'Marr Chase caught three passes, including one TD. Chase leads all rookies with eight touchdowns this season.

Bengals kicker Evan McPherson had four field goals and became the 13th player with three of 50 yards or more in a game.

"Against that team, you just try to stay on schedule," said Burrow, who was just 12 of 18 for 78 yards and was sacked twice in the first half. "For the most part, we were able to get first downs when we needed them."

Meanwhile, Cincinnati's defense limited the Raiders to 278 yards, the second time the Bengals held an opponent to fewer than 300 yards in a game.

Raiders quarterback Derek Carr finished 19 of 27 for 215 yards, one touchdown and one interception. Tight end Darren Waller caught seven passes for 116 yards, while his backup Foster Moreau's lone catch was a 19-yard touchdown.

Las Vegas failed to convert on its first six third-down attempts —a stretch of 14 straight over two games from last week's loss to Kansas City — until Carr hit Hunter Renfrow for 8 yards on a third-and-2 with two minutes left in the game.

A conversion too late, as it turned out, as Carr was sacked on the next two plays, fumbled on the second one, and watched the Bengals wrap up the win.

"We just wanted to get after the quarterback, that's always number one, getting him uncomfortable," Bengals cornerback Eli Apple said. "Taking away the quick easy stuff, making them earn everything. We just wanted to be more aggressive for sure."

Taylor runs up score with 5 TDs; Colts beat Bills

BY JOHN WAWROW
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Coach Frank Reich and the Colts discovered an easy fix to their problems holding fourth-quarter leads: Keep feeding Jonathan Taylor the ball.

The second-year running back set a franchise record by scoring five times, and took over the NFL lead in both yards rushing and touchdowns, in a 41-15 rout of the unraveling Buffalo Bills on Sunday.

"When J.T. turns on the jets, he's gone," tight end Mo Alie-Cox said of Taylor, who scored on runs of 1, 2, 3 and 10 yards and a 23-yard reception. "Like the one play at the goal line, I'm blocking and I just turn my head and I just see him flying through the air like a superhero."

All that was missing was a cape for Taylor, who scored three times in the first half as Indy built a 24-7 lead and finished with a season-best 185 yards rushing.

The Colts (6-5) have won five of six to get back into the AFC playoff race. Taylor helped ease the concerns of a team that had squandered three fourth-quarter leads this season.

"It meant a lot. I mean, that's something that we're going to have to do if we want to get to where we want to go at the end of the year," Taylor said. "We're going to have to be able to put games away in the fourth quarter, we're going to have to put points up."

Taylor became the NFL's first player to score five TDs in one game since New Orleans' Alvin Kamara had six TDs rushing in a 52-33 win over Minnesota last Christmas Day, and the first to do so against Buffalo.

The Bills (6-4) ceded their lead atop the AFC East, falling a half-game behind — guess who? — New England, which Buffalo will play twice over the next five weeks. Buffalo has dropped three of five, and hasn't won consecutive games since a 4-0 run ended with a 34-31 loss at Tennessee on Oct. 18.

BY PAT EATON-ROBB
ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNCASVILLE, Conn. — Purdue's biggest men came up large in a huge early season game.

Zach Edey scored 21 points and No. 6 Purdue overcame an 11-point second-half deficit to beat No. 5 Villanova 80-74 on Sunday and win the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Tournament.

The 7-foot-4 center hit nine of his 12 shots from the floor and grabbed six rebounds. The team's other post, 6-10 Trevion Williams, added nine points and four boards for the Boilermakers (5-0), who dominated underneath, outscoring the Wildcats 38-18 in the paint and outrebounding them 38-26.

"Trevion and Zach is a really good 1-2 punch and I thought offensively they had an above average game," coach Matt Painter said. "Between them they had 30 and 10, and I thought Trevion's defense when we switched five ways he got down in a stance and was the difference. It doesn't show up in this box score, but it shows up with our staff."

Caleb Furst and Isaiah Thompson each had 12 points for Purdue.

Justin Moore had 19 points, Caleb Daniels added 17 and Collin Gillespie had 14 for Villanova (3-2), which launched 34 attempts from behind the arc, making 13 of them.

The Wildcats led 33-31 at halftime, scored the first five points in the second half and were up 57-46 after a 3-pointer by Daniels.

But Purdue outscored the Wildcats 34-17 over the last nine minutes.

"This season obviously we've never been down before, it was something different," Thompson said. "I think we were resilient in the second half. I think we got off to a good start and just maintained our focus. Just go on a run, keep getting aggressive and keep fighting. I think we did that late in the game and it led us to a win."

A dunk by Edey after an apparent missed travel call on Sasha Stefanovic tied the score at 62, and a fast-break layup from Furst gave the Boilermakers the lead at 64-62 with four minutes left, their first time ahead in the second half.

A slam and free throw by Edey with just under a minute to play extended the lead to 75-65, and the Boilermakers held on.

At one point the Boilermakers made 11 straight shots.

"They just played a really intelligent game for 40 minutes," Villanova coach Jay Wright said. "They made less mistakes and executed what they do more consistently for 40 minutes. That's why they are a really good team."

BIG PICTURE

Purdue: The Boilermakers shot 52.7% after putting up a season-best 55.7% in the first round of the tournament against North Carolina. Purdue has shot at least 50% in every game this season. ... This was the first time this season Purdue has failed to reach 90 points.

Villanova: This was the third time in five games the Wildcats have played a Top 25 team. "I hope it helps us in our league play when we get there," Wright said. "Number one, our league is really good. Number two, a lot of times we start conference play and we're not really sure what we are yet. We have an idea, I think this year, playing these teams, these coaches."

Berger leads No. 4 Indiana to 67-59 victory over Quinnipiac

BY WILLIAM S. PAXTON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAMDEN, Conn. — Grace Berger scored 17 points as No. 4 Indiana rallied past Quinnipiac 67-59 on Saturday.

Indiana (4-0) finished with four starters scoring in double figures, including Ali Patberg with 12, and Nicole Cardano-Hillary and Mackenzie Holmes each with 10.

Indiana fell behind 12-2 at the outset and trailed by as many as 13 points in the first half.

"We're a veteran team, we've been in this spot before where we've been down," Berger said. "We don't ever freak out."

The Hoosiers came in with all five starters averaging at least 12 points, including Aleksa Gulbe. She finished with eight points.

Mackenzie DeWees scored 15 points and Mikala Morris added 13 points and 10 rebounds for Quinnipiac (2-2).

Down 33-27 at the half, the Hoosiers swung momentum by getting Holmes on track. She came in averaging a team-high 20.7 points per game but got into early foul trouble and scored only two points in the opening half.

"We knew we were going to have to be much better in the second half," Indiana coach Teri Moren said. "I think (Mackenzie) started figuring things out … and we did much better eliminating their 3s."

Quinnipiac was 5 for 12 on 3-pointers in the first half but made just 1 of 4 in the second.

Holmes scored three straight baskets on an 8-0 run in the third quarter that cut the Quinnipiac lead to 41-38. Berger tied it at 43 with a three-point play with 1:05 left, and Cardano-Hillary's foul shot gave Indiana its first lead, 44-43, with 50 seconds left.

Indiana outscored the Bobcats 20-10 in the quarter and shot 53.8% from the field (7 for 13).

The Hoosiers ran into trouble early and lost Holmes to her second foul with 6:13 left in the first quarter.

"It was a block party underneath. We set the tone that we're here to play and we're here to win," Quinnipiac coach Tricia Fabbri said. "We love a challenge. We play to win every game no matter who's wearing the uniform, and it's exciting to have Indiana come in here.

"We were ready to play."

The Bobcats were 5 of 12 on 3-pointers and never trailed in the opening half. DeWees led the way with eight points. Berger's buzzer-beating 3-pointer at the end of the half helped Indiana cut the deficit to six.

No. 13 Kentucky shakes off early rust to beat Ohio 77-59

BY KEITH TAYLOR
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Keion Brooks wasn't surprised that Ohio challenged No. 13 Kentucky on Friday night. It took his 22-point game to spark the Wildcats to a 77-59 victory.

"They're a good team," Brooks said of Ohio (3-1). "We expected them to be good and that was our focus coming into the game, this is a quality team and if we didn't play well, they can beat us. We knew they could beat us if we didn't come ready."

Kentucky coach John Calipari said it served as a learning experience for his squad.

"That team — I almost thought what in the world did I do, playing these guys," he said. "You need tune-ups, you need tune-up games and some teams only play tune-up games. We don't. We do have tune-ups and we have to have them on the schedule, but this game really showed us something."

Freshman guard TyTy Washington added career-high 20 points and 11 rebounds for Kentucky, while Davion Mintz scored 12 points and Sahvir Wheeler had 11 .

Ben Vander Plas finished with a team-high 19 points and six rebounds for Ohio, followed by Jason Carter with 15 points and Mark Sears with 10.

The Wildcats used a big second half to fend off the Bobcats, who led for most of the first half. Brooks set the tone by scoring eight of the Wildcats' first 10 points after halftime.

Kentucky was without leading scorer and rebounder Oscar Tshiebwe in the first half because he picked up two fouls in the first two minutes. But Kentucky outrebounded the Bobcats 26-19 in the first half and limited Ohio to just one shot on most possessions with 19 defensive rebounds.
